A Winery located in Oakville, California began operating when two wine icons; Robert Mondavi and Baron Phillipe de Rothschild became partners in 1979. Bordeaux blend of grapes; based on Mondavi's famous To-Kalon Vineyard. In 1984 the initial release of Opus One, it became the first ultra-premium wine.

California's first exclusively Cabernet Sauvignon vineyard. Founded in 1968 by visionary Al Broustein, who started growing on three distinct micro-climate regions on Diamond Mountain. Although the vineyards are very close to each other, elevation, soil type and climate all play an important role in the final product of each wine. A small production winery they continue to achieve consistent high ratings.

Red Rock Terrace 325

Grown in a warm micro-climate facing North. With red tinted soil high in iron content. Velvety tannis, dark ruby colour with cherry, mint and black currant flavors.

Gravelly Meadow 325

Grown in their second coolest micro-climate; originally a pre-historic river bed, with stony gravelly soil causing water to drain rapidly forcing the vines to struggle for moisture. With earthy, cedary, jammy and ripe blackberry notes.

Volcanic Hill 325

South facing vineyard which is the warmest; of all of their mico-climates. The soil is gray with the consistency of fluffy volcanic ash, deposited from the eruption of Mt.Konocti 8 million years ago. Full bodied, with intense ripe berry fruit, cassis, finishing with good length and firm tannins.

Started in 1972, with a simple driving philosophy – To focus on one varietal; Cabernet Sauvignon. Silver Oak Cellars produces Cabernet Sauvignon from two appellations Napa Valley and Alexander Valley.

The Napa Valley derives its fruit from both owned and contracted vineyards, and is produced entirely at their Oakville winery. In 1994, small amounts of Cabernet Franc, Merlot and Petit Verdot have been included in their Napa blend to add complexity and softness.

The Alexander Valley started in 1992, located in Geyserville; also produces stellar Cabernet. Always producing the final blend before aging it in American Oak and then into the bottles. Over the course of four and-a-half years, the wine's flavors, aromas, and textures have an opportunity to meld with one another.

A wine that had Cabernet Sauvignon as its primary component represented a radical shift from the traditional Tuscan and Piedmontese varieties of Sangiovese and Nebbiolo. No one had ever considered making a wine crafted along Bordeaux lines on Italian soil, much less in a region not yet established viticulturally. In addition to the Cabernet's satisfactory bouquet, the Marquis' decision to plant this grape variety at Tenuta San Guido was influenced by the Tuscan location's similarity to Graves in Bordeaux. "Graves" means "gravel" in French, and similarly, the earth at Tenuta San Guido gave Sassicaia its name, which in the Tuscan dialect means "stony ground". The selection of grapes on the vine is seldom necessary. The farming system and very low grape yield per trunk guarantee a healthy product rich in sugar, tannins, extract etc. Vinification takes place in stainless steel vats of 35-110 hl with possible thermal conditioning of the fermentation process. Maceration lasts around 14 days. The Sassicaia is aged in 33% new 225lt.

The King Of Drams The Oldest And Most Expensive Scotch Whisky Glenfiddich ® Rare Collection 1937

After 64 years of maturation, the world's oldest and most expensive bottle of Scotch whisky has been released – Glenfiddich Rare Collection 1937. Only 61 bottles of this exquisite liquid will ever be available, priced at $22000 per bottle (the equivalent of $1500 a measure). Glenfiddich Rare Collection 1937 started its life one summer's day in 1937 when oak cask 843, hand made by distillery coopers, was filled with spirit from the stills at The Glenfiddich Distillery in Dufftown, Scotland, and laid down in a dunnage warehouse to mature. Normally whiskies that reach this great age have either been spoilt or have lost their strength, however this whisky is exceptional having matured slowly, allowing it to develop a unique character. With its wonderful toffee caramel and cinnamon nose, chocolate and treacle flavors and unique rich walnut colour, Glenfiddich Rare Collection 1937 is an extraordinary whisky, full of complexity, subtlety and character. Cask 843 has lived through 64 years and numerous monumental world events, from the Second World War, to the first man landing on the moon and the demise of the Berlin Wall.

Glenfiddich Rare Collection 1937 was distilled in the same year that George VI became King of England, when JRR Tolkien's 'The Hobbit' was first published and Walt Disney's 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs' was first released as a full length animated feature film. At the time, the Glenfiddich Distillery was one of only six distilleries open and producing whisky in Scotland. This makes Scotch whisky from 1937 extremely rare. One day the warehouse key holder, responsible for monitoring the consistent quality of Glenfiddich came across cask 843 and discovered an unusually slow maturing Scotch whisky. He decided to leave it where it was in the cold, dark and damp warehouse providing perfect maturation conditions, and continued to monitor its development.

Over its long life ten consecutive warehouse key holders at the Glenfiddich Distillery patiently watched over cask 843. It was only in the autumn of 2001 that present day Glenfiddich Malt Master, David Stewart, declared the Glenfiddich in cask 843 was truly exceptional.

On 24 October 2001, cask 843 was removed from its dark, damp home, hand filled into just 61 bottles at 44% ABV (64 years of evaporation had taken the rest, 'the angel's share'), individually numbered with handwritten labels, signed by Peter Gordon, the great-great grandson of Glenfiddich founder, William Grant, and presented in an oak box with its own lock and key. Commented David Stewart: "Glenfiddich Rare Collection 1937 is a truly unique and exquisite malt whisky of exceptional character. As well as being the oldest whisky in the world and a very collectable piece, if you can afford to share it with your friends, it would make for the most wonderful taste experience." The Glenfiddich Malt Masters, tasting notes on cask 843 Colour Rich walnut, dark amber and bronze.

Nose Huge and complex, robust oak, burnt heather. Poached pears in chocolate, toffee, raisins, Cinnamon and cloves. A touch of leather and dark roast ground coffee. Taste Initial cossetting smoothness, treacle, sweet, then cedar, oak and drying bitter chocolate-notes.. Finish doesn't overstay. Heavy oak, sweet tobacco, and rich fruit cake. Smoky and very warming.
